Challenging. Entertaining. Insightful. Always fun. Find out how Matt Hill's ability to bring out the best in people has helped hundreds of companies significantly improve their effectiveness at tradeshow and other marketing events.

Whether they're working your tradeshow booth, attending an industry function or hosting a customer meeting, the people who staff your marketing events are critical to your company's success. So why not give them the tools they need to do the best job possible? The kind of tools and techniques taught by Matt Hill. For over 20 years, Matt has helped companies turn sales and marketing programs into success stories. A noted author and sales trainer, Matt's lively and humorous presentation style brings a uniquely interactive dynamic to the podium. And his range of expertise includes just about every aspect of interpersonal interaction – an often overlooked facet of events marketing success.

As a keynote speaker, break-out session leader, corporate trainer and coach, Matt can tailor his presentation material to your company's specific needs.
